The Butterfly Project all started about 15 years ago when a parent brought in a Monarch Butterfly in its chrysalis. The children and I were mesmerized when the adult butterfly emerged and I wanted to build on this experience. So, I researched as much as I could about raising these butterflies. Over the years, one butterfly soon led to planting milkweed, planting flowers, raising countless butterflies, and tagging them to track their migration to Mexico.

Join Barb as she walks you through this journey and offer strategies to help you inspire children in their exploration of this important insect!..
